

ART:

Several gallery previews are scheduled Sunday.

Richard Maitland, now living in Santa Fe, is in Dallas to attend the Sunday opening of a one-man show of his at "2719 Gallery" (Kahl), to be held from 2 to 8 p.m.

The artist is one of the most popular in the gallery stable, having had several small shows last season. This show, however, will mark his first formal local one-man show. He has completed 40 new paintings for the occasion.

The artist's paintings are basically romantic, mood provoking works often containing small figures against a large, open background. He is now represented in a number of local collections.

The gallery will have another special guest on hand Sunday, Santa Fe silversmith Jay Anderson. A recent addition to the gallery fold, Anderson has a new collection of jewelry showing. Both artists, who traveled here together from Santa Fe, will remain in Dallas to mid-week.

AT "2719 GALLERY"—"Kite Flying" is the title of this painting by Richard Maitland from the one-man show opening Sunday at "2719 Gallery" (Kahl). The Santa Fe artist will attend the opening.
